Dear Mr. Courtney,

I just wanted to write to let you know how satisfied I am with your “StoreTotals Application” software.

Earlier this year we were looking for a reasonably priced software package that would provide us with daily information about our stores, as well as maintain that data for historical reference. The “StoreTotals” package met most of our requirements right out of the box. After having a few special needs fulfilled, the package is providing exactly what we wanted, and it is performing flawlessly.

Reports can be designed and built in minutes, which gives each person specific information that displays only the data that helps them do their individual tasks better.

I especially like, and use, the active display of the store data, which displays up to the minute reporting of store information. I use that capability several times daily to monitor how our stores are doing. I consider this one of my most valuable tools, and I can’t imagine how I managed without it. It has certainly made my job easier.

I would also like to express my appreciation to your team for responding to any request we’ve had. They have all performed quickly and professionally to answer questions and to fulfill our unique software requirements.

Without any reservation I would highly recommend your company and this particular software package to any interested party. I am very pleased with both the software and the service we’ve received from EDJ, and I look forward to a continuing relationship.

Best Regards,
